Course Description

This two-day seminar will teach you NFPA 1600's essential elements in an interactive, activity-based setting. Learn how to build an organization to develop, implement and keep current your program. Conduct a risk assessment to identify potential impacts on people, property, operations, the environment, and your organization's brand, image and reputation. Identify resource needs and learn how to assess their capabilities. Learn how to develop prevention, mitigation, emergency response, business continuity, and crisis communications plans required by NFPA 1600. Review training requirements and experience a tabletop exercise.
